DO NOT MISS IT.

The Ball Game Next Saturday Promises to be the Best of the Kind Ever Seen.

If you have any love for the national game, or if you have any desire to indulge in an afternoon's pure enjoyment, you should not miss the ball game to be played next Saturday afternoon at the ball park between the business and professional men.
Charles E. Briere will head the professional men while E. B. Redford will lead the business men into the fray. One is a lawyer and the other a banker, so it ought to be a standoff as to which will come out ahead. Both sides have signed a large number of players, so they expect an abundance of material to last out the entire nine innings.
The gate receipts will go to the park commission.

PLAY WINNING BALL.

Local Team Takes Everything in Sight and Win Three Games During Past Week.

The locals have been playing good baseball during the past week, having won from Merrill by a score of 2 to 3, Port Edwards 7 to 2, and on Sunday they defeated Ripon by a score of 1 to 0, in a thirteen inning game, and the last was probably the best that has been played in this city.

The Merrill game probably caused the most interest, being played on Thursday afternoon and was a hotly contested one from start to finish.
The Merrill and the local teams have been very evenly matched this season, and the consequence is that their games have been to work for every run they got. Heretofore, however, Merrill has generally got the best of the argument, in which the locals believe the second in which the locals made one run in the second inning and another in the third and the game was two to nothing until the visitors went to bat in the seventh inning when they managed to get in two runs. This made it a tie, and as our boys made a couple of errors and were apparently playing a trifle untidy it looked as if the visitors might be going to win again, but they steadied down at once and made another run in the last half of the seventh and shut the visitors out the next two innings, making the score 3 to 2.

Dolin, our old time friend, played with the locals, and made good, and Dolan, who was supposed to be one of the best of them, played on second, but his work was no better than what has been done by our regular men right along. Following is the score by innings.

0 0 0 0 0 2 0
Grand Rapids 6 1 0 0 0 1 0

Grand Rapids at Port Edwards.

The locals went to Port Edwards on Saturday afternoon and defeated the Port boys by a score of 7 to 2.

Only a part of the regular team went down, the nine being made up of Athletics and regulars. The game was inspired by Dodge and the locals say that he was one of the best players that they had down there.

Considerable interest was taken in the game and everybody was well satisfied with the trip.

Ripon and Grand Rapids.

On Sunday afternoon the locals played with the team from Ripon and the game resulted in one of the best exhibitions that has been seen on the home grounds for many a day. It took thirteen innings to decide it and the score at that time stood 1 to 0 in favor of the locals. Moon was pitching ball all the time and struck out fifteen of the visitors and the Ripon pitcher faimed.

Every point was contested to the limit and there was no time when either side got careless and allowed the opponents to get the better of them.

Old baseball fans who were present at the game were jubilant over what they had seen. The entire team played ball from start to finish and it was a royal contest. It is hoped that Ripon will be able to come here again before the season is over, as every lover of baseball would strain a point to be present at the game.

Notes of the Game

Moon was in fine form allowing only six hits and struck out fifteen men.

Townsend made a nice throw from deceit left cutting off a runner at third.

Bandelin played a star game at first, accepting every chance without any errors.

Nash cut off a runner at home which looked like a sure score for Ripon.

Schreiner got to third on a three bagger in the seventh inning with one man out, but failed to pass the rubber.

Moon won his own game in the thirteen innings with a three bagger and a sacrifice by Schreiner.

Thomson is playing a fast game in center, he covers lots of ground.

Siebert on second played his usual good game.

Dietzler is playing a good game on third.

Post, our plucky catcher, is as good as they make them.

Pitcher Stadler of Ripon will pitch for Grand Rapids Wednesday against Merrill.

Nekoosa and Port Edwards.

Nekoosa and Port Edwards settled their difference on the baseball diamond last Sunday, playing a candid game that resulted in a score of 4 to 3.
That it was a hotly contested game can be seen by the score, and a great deal of interest was taken by both sides. It is probable that another game will be played later on as the Port Edwards boys are confident that they can beat their neighbors. Russell Hanson of this city caught for the Nekoosa team.

Dr. Brewer.

—It is admitted that where the mind is wholly devoted to one object, with talent and perseverance, excellence will be attained. Dr. Brewer has devoted many years to the exclusive treatment of chronic diseases, and his success in the most accurated cases is said to be most extraordinary.
Those who are afflicted with lines and diseases should not fail to see Dr.
Brewer on his next visit at the Witter House, this city, on Wednesday, September 2nd.

Establishing a Boy's School.

E. D. Hall has been in the city several days during the past week interviewing our citizens on the subject of a boy's school which he is interested in and which will be established in Langlade county near Antigo.

Mr. Hall has been interested in this sort of work for a number of years past, having been connected with a school of the same kind in Illinois, where the work has been very successful, and it was from this fact that he was invited to assist in the work in Wisconsin.

Mr. Hall reports that the society having in the matter in charge have already secured a tract of land near Antigo where some of the work of the clearing the land has been commenced, which will be carried forward until it is in the best possible shape for farming.

The boys are taken between the ages of ten and sixteen years. They are boys who have been raised in the city, and who have been found to be dependent on the community for a living, and who possibly may have done wrong from the fact. The boys are placed on the farm where they are given instruction one half of the day and allowed to work at some trade or pursuit the balance of the day. The school gives the boy a education that will allow him to enter high school and at the same time gives him instruction in some trade or occupation that may be to his liking so that when he leaves the school he not only has a fair education, but he has had enough experience at a trade so that he knows what he wants to take up for his life business.

It is found that many of our boys who are taken from these schools make good in after years and become useful citizens. While they are working on the farm they produce that assist in their support, and where the schools have been in operation for some time it is found that enough produce is raised to feed those at the school.

An effort is made to make the produce of the farm as varied as possible until it is discovered just what is best for that locality, after which this is the main produce as a commodity. Fruit raising is engaged in as well as truck raising and farming, and the instruction the boys get along this line is of a character that will be of use to them later in life.

Mr. Hall has interested a number of people in this city in the work, and reports that nice progress is being made.

BOY BADLY HURT.

Is Thrown From a Horse and Kicked in the Head and Has a Fractured Skull.

Ernest Dapre, the ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dapre, met with a frightful accident on Monday afternoon which resulted in the fracture of his skull and may prove fatal. He was riding a horse when the animal threw him, and as he fell to the ground the animal kicked and struck him over the head, fracturing the skull and allowing the brain to protrude from the wound.

The only witness to the accident was Leslie Bliss, who was feeding potatoes in the adjoining lot. He stated that young Dapre had come to the lot where the horse had been turned out at pasture and had got out to the animal and was riding about the pasture at rather a rapid pace.

At the same time he had a dog following him which was barking and making considerable noise, so that the horse was considerably frightened.
Suddenly the horse reared up and the boy slid off but before he struck the ground the horse lashed out with its hind foot and one of its hoofs struck the boy in the head, with the result above stated.

Young Bliss went to the house assistance and saw at once that the boy was badly hurt, so he called his hand-chief about Dapre's head and ran to the nearest telephone to summon a doctor. When the doctor arrived they found the little fellow in bad shape, but did what they could for him, and he was conveyed to his home, and everything possible was done for him. It is impossible to say what the outcome of the accident will be, as the attending physician holds out but little hope for his recovery.

The horse was a pony owned by W.
O. McGlynn, who had been pasturing the animal on a lot owned by the Arpns. Residents of that part of town say that boys have been in the habit of entering the pasture and riding the horse, it being of a gentle disposition and used to having children about it.

Elks Win Their Game.

The Elks went to Stevens Point on Friday and played a game with the Elks of that city and won the game by the score of 10 to 3. The boys from this city had the best of it from start to finish. The following concerning the game is from the Stevens Point Journal:

The baseball game between the Elks of Grand Rapids and the Elks of this city at the fair grounds Friday afternoon proved an amusing rather farcical stunt, which was enjoyed by a large crowd. The game was called in the seventh inning with the score 10 to 3 in favor of Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids had the advantage of an experienced university pitcher Nash, who played good ball. Moran did the fancy curve work for Stevens Point up to the third inning when he was succeeded by Englishman.

The Grand Rapids team made 5 scores in the first, 2 in the second and 3 in the third inning, the first which they were blanked till the finish. Stevens Point's playing was barren of results until the seventh inning, when three runs were made.

made her home with the family.
She is survived by four children, two

Reimer of Rudolph, Fred Reimer

Balloon Accident at Abbotford

During the street carnival, on Tuesday, the people of Abbotford saw a most exciting and lamentable act that was not on the program.
Mrs. Elen Jones went up in a balloon, expecting to come down in a parking place. When about 1,000 feet in the air, she saw herself loose from the balloon and when she did so the rope on the valentine broke. The crowd held its breath, expecting to see the woman dashed to pieces on the pavement. When about thirty feet from the ground the falling balloonist was caught in the branches of an ash tree. The bunch broke of the fall and she was taken from the tree in an unconscious condition. An examination showed that Mrs. Jones was suffering from several broken ribs, but will recover.

A black and white portrait of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Jones. She is wearing a wide-brimmed hat decorated with flowers and a dark, patterned dress. The portrait is framed by a decorative border with floral motifs on the sides.

CUSTOMS OF THE PHILIPPINES.

show an Exceedingly Primitive Stage of Development.

Of the survival of curious Malay customs in the Philippines Judge Charles S. Lobangur said before the anthropological conference at Aguinaldo Hall, Manila. The Philippines offers a little and fascinating field for the student of historical and comparative jurisprudence. It is probably the only country in the world where the three metropolitan legal systems—Roman, English and Mohammedan—exist side by side. But there are exotic and weird customs beneath their veneer less a statum, which may be found all way from Aparai to Zamboanga. The family law is usually the oldest custom of any legal system, just as the institution itself is the oldest of human institutions. And as the basis of the marriage relation is one of the earliest subjects of archaic law, the customs of Malay marriage customs throughout the Philippines indicate an exceedingly primitive stage of development. One very prevalent custom is that which requires a suitor to serve the parents of his intended bride for a period more or less long before marriage. It is really a survival of the purchase stage in the evolution of marriage, is universal in extent and is typified by the account in Genesis of Jacob serving Laban. Another is the remedial law, or that which pertains to the enforcement of rights and duties, is usually the slowest in development and in its origin is invariably connected with superstition. Our Anglo-Saxon forefathers tried causes not by evidence, but by the ordeal, usually a test, in some form, of the conduct of the parties. In universal institution, in England lasting till 1215. In some form it is in use among probably all the primitive Malay tribes to-day and at least one form, the boiling-water test, is identical with that employed by the Anglo-Americans. As the late Mr. J. H. Hays tells me that among the tribes of his province the ordeal, or trial by battle, which was not abolished in England until the nineteenth century, is still in vogue."

LIBRARY-

THRONES OF RUSSIAN RULERS.

For Centuries It Has Been Custom of Each Czar to Have New One.

For 500 years it has been the custom of each of the czars of Russia to have new thrones, new crowns, new scepters, and new coronation robes, and at the coronation of each new Russian emperor have been deposited in a place called the treasury of the Kremlin, together with the valuable gifts each has received at the time of his coronation and during his reign from his fellow sovereigns or his subjects, says the Detroit News Tribune. Each throne is made of the finest Russian birch, and the thrones, and crowns and coronation robes of their consorts and those of the rulers they have overthrown in battle, and whose domains from time to time have been annexed in conquest to the Russian empire.

In the treasury, a visitor can see a collection of a century of Russian gold, silver and precious stones. There is a succession of crowns mounted on pedestals standing before the empty thrones of those who wore them; also the crowns and thrones of Poland, Siberia, Georgia, Astrakhan, Kazan, the Crimea, and other nations, which were formerly independent, but by force of arms have been added to the Russian empire. All are covered with jewels, some of them among the largest and most precious in the world. "Crowns upon crowns; thrones upon thrones; scepters upon scepters, rivers of rubies, cascades of diamonds, oceans of pearls," some one has said. The present czar sensibly decided not to have a new throne. From the large assortment of thrones belonging to his predecessors he selected one made of ivory filigree work and exquisite carving which was captured from India in 1473. The czarina selected a gorgeous throne of ebony, heavily incrustured with jewels, which was captured from Persia in 1609. It bears 875 diamonds and 1,233 rubies, besides many other stones of lesser value.

Chinese Sacred Number.

Five is the sacred number of the Chinese, who have five planets, five cardinal points, five virtues, five tastes, five musical tones, five ranks of nobility and five colors.

A black and white illustration of a woman standing with her hands on her hips. She is wearing a long, fitted coat with a high collar and a large, ornate hat. The coat has a buttoned front and a slightly flared hem. The illustration is enclosed in a rectangular frame.

Several times a day the face can be gently toned with the alcohol, which is drying to the skin and which will do away with the shine caused by the grease.

Embroidery for Chemises.

Hand-embroidered tops for chemises and nightgowns may be bought at comparatively little cost, to be attached to the main part of the garment, which may be made at home. This is quite an innovation, but one likely to be very profitable, for, in buying a ready-made chemise, for instance, it is almost sure to be too long or in some way unsatisfactory, and the same may be said of a nightgown. If just the hand-embroidered yoke is bought, however, and the rest of the gown made at home, the material will surely be more carefully selected and the garment may be made to order. The hand-embroidered yokes are attached to the skirt of the garment by means of some beading or Valenciennes lace insertion, or it might be done with a little bit of narrow real lace.

The corset skirt of this costume is trimmed with three shaped flounces, machine stitched three times at the edge; a band of linen of a different color heads the flounces. The little coat has a shaped strap of linen round the edge, and is trimmed with buttons covered with the same; it is open in front, and shows a white lawn skirt, that is worn with a linen collar and silk tie. The sleeves are gathered into deep bands below the elbows. Panama hat, trimmed with ribbon and bunches of cherries.

NEW WASH FABRIC FOR SKIRTS

Poplinette Largely Takes Place of Linen and Linen Duck.

There is a fabric called poplinette very common, and cottonette by others, which has to some extent taken the place of all-linen and linen duck for wash skirts.

It has a fine cord in it that reminds one of pique, but it is not nearly so strong as muslin. It is cheaper than most of the fabrics for wash white skirts, and it serves two seasons of constant tubbing.

It is not expensive. It is made up by the popular ten-gored circular model mentioned straight down the front. Women who do not wish to go to the trouble of pressing a white linen skirt every evening, are quite delighted with this good-looking cotton fabric and it does not easily crush.

It is also being used for children's everyday slips. It makes excellent house suits for small boys. The model in the envelope one now popular for a good many garments.

This buttons down, each shoulder, and nowhere else. It has a plait down the center, back and front, and the arm bands are almost straight. For little girls' slips it is made up in the same fashion, but cut out at neck.

At the edges there are bands of finely figured chintz or calico.

Rough Cloths for Fall.

It seems early to think of fall and winter styles when only the sheers and thinnest of fabrics are making their appeal, but a general forecast may be timely as well as interesting. While broadcloths will probably receive the most attention, fitting as they do, almost into the trend of fashion, there will be a good demand for the rougher cloths for the strictly tailored costume for the morning and rough usage. For this the chevron design makes an interesting promise in the neutral shades, the smoke and elephant gray, the brown and the dark blues, all of which will turn forth under new titles—Dressa.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For President—
WILLIAM J. BRYAN
For Vice-President—
JOHN W. KERN

Following in the footsteps of his republican predecessors, candidate Tatt pretends to believe that there is great danger to the country in the possibility of Bryan's election. By attempting a role of republican leadership with admirable exactness putting special emphasis upon the things which have been used in the campaign for the past fifty years. When Cleveland was first nominated the voters were told that if the democratic party were successful the country would be ruined; that no democrat was familiar enough with government to manage it prudently and in the interests of all the people. Since Cleveland's death republican newspapers and republican statesmen have admitted that they were mistaken. Grover Cleveland was twice elected to the presidency and gave the people of the United States an admirable administration, one entirely free from every species of corruption. Only a few weeks ago Mr. Cleveland died, and his record in public and private life became the subject of universal newspaper comment. The republican press of the United States which denounced him as an incompetent when he was a candidate for president, ascended to him unstinted praise for the many stand he took on all the important questions while in office, and the intelligent manner in which he guided the ship of state during the night years he met in the presidential chair. All this praise was given after Cleveland had passed away. If the republican newspapers told the truth about Grover Cleveland after he was dead, then they willfully misrepresent him when he was a candidate for the presidency. No doubt the same papers that are now engaged in the work of tearing Mr. Bryan down, will, when Bryan passes away, extend to him the belated measure of praise which they rendered Cleveland under the same circumstances. The voters of this country have become so thoroughly accustomed to the cry of alarm sent up by republican leaders whenever it is reasonably apparent that their party is likely to be separated from the public treasury that they will pay little attention to Mr. Tatt's assumed expression of fear of democratic success. The majority of voters know that a man who is big enough to be nominated by either of the dominant parties must of necessity be a reasonably good citizen, one fairly imbued with the spirit of progress and patriotism. No ordinary man will be singled out by six or seven million voters as the one person suitable for the highest honors in the country unless he is a man of transcendent abilities, unquestioned integrity and loyalty to his country's cause. The democratic party contains one-half of the voters of the United States. It is unreasonable to suppose that one-half the voters will favor any measure, or any course of procedure that will ruin the country's industries. The republican workmen of the United States, the democratic farmers, merchants, and professional men are certainly as much interested in maintaining everything that is good in this government as are republican voters or the same professions, trades and callings, and any man who asserts to the contrary must place considerable reliance in the credulity and ignorance of his party when he expects its members to believe him.

How Does It Happen?

The New York World says: "A tax on the hundreds of millions of annual income of the wealthy would go far toward relieving the burden of taxation now borne by people with small incomes or almost no incomes at all. There is no more just or equitable way of raising public revenue."

Yet the republican national convention defeated an income tax plank by a vote of 950 yeas to 28 nays. How does it happen that such a just method of raising public revenue found only twenty-eight supporters in an assemblage of 978 republican leaders?

Attorney general Bonaparte and secretary Cortelyou have notified the national banks of Oklahoma that they will lose their charters if they take advantage of the law passed in that state, granting depositors in the banks. This order sounds like a command made from Wall street financiers. Anything that Wall street wants, one can safely bet, is what the people desire. The people do not question the honesty of the bankers of this country. They ask only that a guarantee be given them that their money when deposited is safe and that they can get it when it is due. The small banks of the country favor the law, but the large ones, that are owned and controlled by the interests, are fighting against the proposition for fear that it would benefit the people.

Fairbanks Supports Bryan.

Indianapolis, Aug. 12.—Indiana is going Democratic this fall unless something is done quickly to head off Charles Warren Fairbanks, vice president.

The vice president didn't like it at all when the Chicago convention passed him by. When it was found he couldn't have the nomination for president or even another whack at the vice presidency, his men announced that the decision would work a revolution against the party in Indiana.

It did. The Indianapolis News, which has the largest circulation of Indiana newspapers, and long has been able to exert a tremendous power in the affairs of Indiana, never has failed to work night and main for whatever were the wishes of Fairbanks.

Right after the convention, its members began to train their shot against the Republican nominee. Each day they had a good word to say for Bryan.

Beginning of the Fairbanks machine, probably the most powerful in any state of the union, carefully cloaked when it is charged.

Certain it is that the revolution against the Republican party and in favor of Bryan has come.

That Indiana will go Democratic is an even wager in the betting places of Indianapolis.

Two Great Dairymen.

University of Wisconsin Professors who have revolutionized Dairying. Madison, Wis., Aug. 12.—Dr. S. M. Babcock and Dr. E. B. Hart, are known to the world as men who have revolutionized the Dairy Industry. Says A. W. Hopkins, Wisconsin '08, in an article in the last Outlook in which he reviews the work which these two professors of the University of Wisconsin have done for the dairyman of the state and, through them, for the nation and the world at large. The value of this work to the butter and cheese manufacturers everywhere is evident when it is considered that the amount of butter contained in a cow's milk is accurately determined by Dr. Babcock's invented test; while the amount of casein for making cheese is determined by an invention of Prof. Hart.

"The Babcock test is essential in having milk for the manufacture of butter, but it is scarcely possible that its economic importance is greater than that of the Hart test for the determination of the cheese producing content of milk," says Mr. Hopkins. "By the recent production of his apparatus the cheese industry of the country has been established upon a new basis. The broader, through the Babcock test, has made a butter cow, one in which the fat is unusually high, and he has done this by selection. It seems highly probable that, with the simple casein test, the cheese cow can also be developed—a cow which, for instance, instead of giving a milk with seventy pounds of casein per hundred pounds of fat, will produce a milk containing nearer a hundred pounds of casein for one hundred pounds of fat. We need a strain of cows which will habitually produce milk rich in casein. There lies one of the important fields of the casein test. Like the Babcock test, the Hart test is a means of determining the profit-producing power of the dairy cows of our farmers. Its intelligent use will eliminate the unproductive animals and improve the character of those to be."

Mr. Hopkins describes both processes popularly. The Babcock test, he says, is a machine for revolving glass milk-bottles at a certain speed, with careful graduate marks on the outside of each bottle. In addition there is a tube to measure the milk, and an acid measure. The well stirred milk and sulphuric acid are put in the bottle, shaken, and put in the machine where the revolving motion at high pressure sends the fat into the neck of the bottle, where it can easily be measured. The Hart test is somewhat similar, except that acetic acid and chloroform are used, with a microscope to control exactly the speed of the machine.

An Interview with Dean Henry

As many people are interested in the constitutional amendments to permit the State to aid in improving roads the following expression from a man who has had interests of the farmers of Wisconsin at heart for many years cannot fail to be of value.

The passage of this amendment is the first step toward the adoption of a road system under which any town that is progressive enough to vote to improve its roads can get aid from the State. The town first votes of its own free will, to improve its roads, and when it has done so the county and state help to pay for them.

When asked for his opinion Dean Henry said:—

"Any attempt to change the constitution of Wisconsin to allow for internal improvements will naturally be preceded by much agitation and discussion. Discussion concerning our public highways cannot be of productive of good for now that the pioneer stage of agriculture is past, rural progress from this time on is more directly dependent on the conditions of our highways than on any other factor. Whoever studies the present conditions of our roads and our manner of dealing with them must admit that the whole situation is bad. It may be expressed by the two words, 'arrested development.' I am in favor of any and all efforts that will help bring about the real improvement of our highways."

Diarrhoea Cured.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without avail," writes John H. Zirkle of Phillips, W. Va. "He saw Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Chicago Republican and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he was a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old can do as much work as a young man." Sold by Daily Drug & Jewelry Co.

NEKEOSA.

(From the Times.)

Mike Duke, the Austrian who was arrested on suspicion of having caused the burning of Kellows Bros. Lumber Co.'s shed and lumber here on Sunday, July 25, was discharged from custody last Tuesday afternoon and is back here at work on the new school house. Duke was sent in the vicinity of the shed about the time the fire started and it was thought had something to do with it. He was arrested and had a preliminary hearing before Justice Heike a week ago last Monday. District Attorney Andrews conducted the examination. The man protested his innocence of arson and what evidence was introduced was circumstantial, but none of the witnesses had seen him going into the shed or coming out of it. The hearing was adjourned until Monday of this week when a deputy state fire marshal came here to look up the matter. No further evidence appearing against Duke, the district attorney ordered his release on Tuesday.

R. C. Scheibe and family will move in Grand Rapids next Monday to reside there, but Mr. Scheibe states that he will spend most of his time in Nekeosa until September 15 when he intends to make an extended trip west.

Mr. Scheibe was one of the first settlers at Nekeosa, locating here Nov. 15, 1893, so that he has been a resident in this place for nearly fifteen years. R. X. Gronda has bought the Frank Point place opposite O. Marcou's residence and will move in with his family in the near future.

PITTSVILLE.

A project has been started at Pittsville which will probably materialize in the organization of a company to manufacture roof tiling from clay on Nash Mitchell's farm south of the city. The clay has been pronounced of excellent quality for this purpose and it is said that deposits of the kind required for high grade tile are scarce. With the local men who are interested in the proposition to establish a factory and for the clay is of the right kind for the purpose, they have sent a quantity of it to Vesper for further testing in the brick yard there. A factory of this kind would probably not employ a large number of men at the start, but would at once be a boost for Pittsville and later on when the business becomes established will be a big thing for the city. The supply of clay being sufficient to warrant a good sized factory.

Pickles are coming in rapidly to the salting station here, of which Ed Langhoff is in charge. The season has been a good one not only for pickles but for all other farm products as well and the farmers around Pittsville are feeling pleased about the prospect of a bumper crop this year.

Mr. Baade was mowing hay and looking back at the cycle which was not running properly, when the boy, who had been picking berries, in the grass nearby, stepped backward into the path of the cycle.

His leg was cut near the ankle in two places, one being so bad that it was found necessary to remove the leg.

The boy is about eleven years old and it is thought to have been an accident on his part and not carelessness, as he was of an age advanced enough to realize the danger of the mower.
